Five-minute lighting talks on the craft of writing

Honest, constructive critiquing in small groups

Encouragement & accountability from other aspiring writers

Most of the time will be spent in small-group critiquing sessions. To that end, you are encouraged (but not required) to bring a short sample of fiction for critique, along with a few copies for distribution.

You may also check out a book from the group's growing library:

Story by Robert McKee

Characters & Viewpoint by Orson Scott Card

Plot & Structure by James Scott Bell

Description by Monica Wood

On Writing by Stephen King

Writing Fiction by the Gotham Writers' Workshop

The Art of Fiction by John Gardner

The First Five Pages by Noah Lukeman

Self-Editing for Fiction Writers by Browne & King

The Elements of Style by Strunk & White

Artful Sentences by Virginia Tufte

The Art of Styling Sentences by Longknife & Sullivan
